Teaching Experience

Northwestern University, Henry and Leigh Bienen School of Music (1988-present)

Until 1997, the two-year Musicianship sequence at Northwestern was taught on alternate days: MWF for theory, and TTh for the corresponding history.

For the second quarter of the sophomore year, I taught theory sections as well as being responsible for the entire sophomore class in 20th century musicology. Departmental structure and curriculum were reorganized in 1998, separating Music Theory from Music Composition.

Music 115.1	Musicianship: Introduction to Theory and Analysis
Music 115.3	Musicianship: Theory and Analysis-The Classical Period
Music 211.3	Sophomore Theory: Resonance and Spectrality
Music 215.1	Musicianship: Theory and Analysis-The Romantic Period
Music 215.2*	Musicianship: Theory and Analysis-The 20th Century
Music 215.2*	Musicianship: History-The 20th Century
Music 215.3	Musicianship: Theory and Analysis-Early Music

Music 216	Musicianship: Theory and Analysis-The Romantic Period, Honors section

The Integrated Arts program (discontinued in 2002) at Northwestern involved team-teaching along with members of the faculties of the departments of Art, Theater, and Dance. The sequence of courses in the IA program led towards a minor in Integrated Arts.

Int_Art 190.1	Integrated Arts: Art Process
Int_Art 390.1	Integrated Arts: Capstone Performance Seminar

The Animate Arts program at Northwestern (2005-2010) involved team-teaching along with members of the faculties of the departments of Art, Computer Science, and Radio/Television/Film. The sequence of courses in the AA program lead towards an adjunct major in Animate Arts for students pursuing this credential. The goal was to provide an undergraduate training for the next generation of new media artists. My responsibilities for this curriculum included teaching sound design, electronic composition, and basic acoustic theory using various software tools on both Mac and Windows platforms.
